Faculty Position (Open Rank) in Governance & Management

Position Description and Qualifications:

The Sol Price School of Public Policy is seeking to hire a tenure-track faculty, open rank, in the areas of civic engagement, public ethics, social equity, and/or sustainable democratic institutions, who contributes toward the general field of public administration and management. Candidates should possess a doctoral degree. Of added value will be someone who can contribute to the current university-wide sustainability initiative by strengthening our research and teaching in the institutional dimension of sustainability. The person is expected to teach at both undergraduate and graduate levels, with a teaching focus within the School's highly ranked MPA program. Online education experience would be considered added value to the School.

Diversity, equity, and inclusion are integral to the Price School and to USC’s commitment to excellence in research, engagement, and education. As a component of their teaching and research statement, applicants should discuss their experience and approach to equity and inclusion as expressed through activities such as research focus, fostering an inclusive environment, and/or working with BIPOC students and other historically marginalized groups.

About the Sol Price School of Public Policy:

The mission of the Sol Price School of Public Policy is to improve the quality of life for people and their communities, here and abroad. We achieve this mission through education and research that promote innovative solutions to the most critical issues facing society, with a particular focus on governance, urban development, and social policy. The Price School offers Ph.D. programs in Public Policy and Management and in Urban Planning and Development; masters’ degrees in Public Administration, Public Policy, Nonprofit Leadership and Management, Urban Planning, Health Administration, and Real Estate Development; executive masters’ degrees; and an interdisciplinary undergraduate degree.

Our mission statement drives all of the work of the Price School and underscores our efforts to increase the diversity of our faculty. The people and communities we serve locally and abroad require that we respond to the broader social and demographic shifts we see with a faculty that is representative of these shifts.

USC is one of the world’s premiere research universities, and the Price School is a major contributor to the university’s reputation. Our school supports an array of thematic research centers with $80 million in active sponsored research, ranking third overall in funded research at USC on a per faculty basis. Much of the school’s research is conducted through its centers, institutes, and research groups. Among them are the Bedrosian Center on Governance, Center on Philanthropy and Public Policy, Price Center for Social Innovation, Schwarzenegger Institute for State and Global Policy, Center for Economic Development, Center for Sustainable Cities, National Center for Metropolitan Transportation Research, Lusk Center for Real Estate, Schaeffer Center for Health Policy and Economics, and the Center for Risk and Economic Analysis of Terrorism Events (CREATE), the country’s first Homeland Security Center of Excellence.
